Clarification of News Report

“The Gokongwei group of companies is investing $90 million through JG Digital Equity Ventures (JG DEV), its next-generation digital business, to develop digital ventures, invest in emerging technologies, and harness promising talents across Southeast Asia.

In a statement, the Gokongwei group said JG DEV will focus on industries that intersect with JG Summit Holdings’ ecosystem.

JG DEV will invest in startups that will augment or disrupt its core businesses. These are companies operating within the new media, the consumer sector, retail and financial services verticals.

It will also focus on technology platforms that will power future industries, including digital health, data and logistics.

The JG group has already made at least US$40 million worth of investments in technology startups which includes SEA Limited (operator of wildly successful Garena and Shopee) and Oriente (digital lender operating in the Philippines, Indonesia, and Vietnam).

It aims to accelerate its initial success by earmarking an additional US$50 million under JG DEV to invest in Southeast Asia. The fund will be deployed to early stage startups and also for successful portfolio companies raising funding at later stages.

While investing in startups, JG DEV will also build digital businesses in-house and enter into joint ventures that play off its Philippine ecosystem, which includes Cebu Pacific, Robinsons Retail, URC, and Robinsons Land.

....”

JG Summit Holdings, Inc. confirms the information quoted above.
